Meghan Brown

Bach. Social Science (Law)
University of Toronto

Looking forward to the next stage in my life! I am going to University of Toronto, St. George campus, to study law. My current undergrad is Criminology and social sciences. I love spending time with my friends and family through activities such as hiking, board games and fun events such as shows and concerts. I love movies and pop culture. I had done dance for almost ten years until deciding to move forward with kung fu alongside my dad, achieving second degree black belt, with intentions to better myself through self-discipline and leadership. I can't wait to continue to grow through new experiences and a variety of opportunities!
